

Case Study - Atlas Computer Systems

As a growing and professional company , expanding it was important for Atlas to ensure their new premises reflected their forward thinking & business values and this was reflected in their new office environment.

We were flattered to be awarded the job of planning and fitting out their premises to the required deadlines.

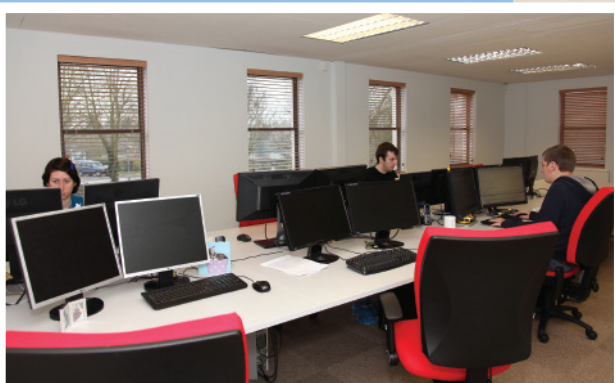

We planned the offices and provided air conditioning , electrical and data cabling works , decoration and new furniture as well as partitioning.

New modern Bench style desking , Glazed partitioning and Boardroom Furniture gave the contemporary image required by the deadline given and to budget.

"Talis Projects are a professional company from start to finish. Nothing is too much trouble for Matt and his team and the completed project is delivered on time and to a very high standard."
